

Angela Billups, Ph.D.
Senior Procurement Executive
Associate Deputy Assistant Secretary for Acquisition
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Dr. Billups is the Associate Deputy Assistant Secretary for Acquisition directing the Office of Grants and Acquisition Policy and Accountability (OGAPA) - Division of Acquisition. Angela joined HHS in January 2011, and serves as the HHS' Senior Procurement Executive leading every aspect of the of the acquisition lifecycle along with the training, certification, and professional development of the acquisition workforce which supports HHS mission of enhancing the health and well-being of Americans through many programs and initiatives that cover a wide spectrum of activities -- serving the American public at every stage of life. Dr. Billups has and continues to grow an environment which fosters creativity and innovation in the conduct of various acquisition related functions throughout the Department.

Dr. Billups has expertise with both Defense and Civilian Agencies, over the years she has been able to integrate strategies and changes which have impacts across the Federal acquisition landscape. She has successfully lead organizations varying in size to include serving as the senior advisor for Defense Department heads at the Army, Navy, Air Force and other Defense Agencies in her role as the Principal Assistant Responsible for Contracting (PARC) at the Pentagon. Dr. Billups has successfully integrated major, geographically distant organizations, providing effective and efficient leadership across the globe supporting all phases of the acquisition lifecycle.